What Woman Can Do.

A student of the sex exalts woman and covers man with contempt thus: She can come to a conclusion with but the slightest trouble of reasoning on it, and no sane man can do that. Six of them can talk at once and get along first rate; and no two men can do that.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumb nail.

She is cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will sweat and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk as sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's heads before they had exchanged ten words.

She can throw a stone with a curve that would be a fortune to a baseball pitcher.

She can say "no" in such a low voice that it means "yes."

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of lead pencils.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can go to church and afterward tell you what every woman in the congregation had on, and in some rare instances can give you a faint idea of what the text was.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She can—but what's the use? A woman can do anything or everything, and do it well.

She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour, and do it better.

She can drive a man crazy for twenty-four hours, and then bring him to paradise in two minutes by simply tickling him under the chin, and there does not live that mortal son of Adam's misery who can do it—EX.

We are willing to bear personal testimony to the efficiency and value of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which we have been advertising some years in our paper, having used it for blood impurities with great success. It is a preparation of standard merit, made of perfectly pure ingredients, and thoroughly effective in cleansing and purifying the system. For eruptions, boils, etc., it can be relied upon every time. Our own experience with it has been most gratifying, and we are glad to give it this endorsement.—(Atlas) Mass. Transcrip.

A Dig in the Ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphragm, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chaffy whose liver is out of order. When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin has pained not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulder-blade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest antibilious and alterative medicine extant. Incomparable is it also, for dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney trouble, and fever and ague.

Obituary.

CROMWELL, Ky., Sept. 26, 1899. Bro. Henry S. Cummins was born July 27th, 1834, and died in holy triumph, September 19, 1899. He was married to Miss Margaret Shull, April 30, 1859. She was a devoted wife and mother, and died of cancer on the 10th of the month. Bro. Cummins was a member of the Methodist Church, South, at the age of thirty-five years, under the ministry of Rev. J. R. Bennett. Bro. Cummins was a devoted husband, a kind father, a faithful Christian, a good neighbor, and a valuable citizen, who will be very much missed in his neighborhood, and by the church to which he belonged. In his religious life, Bro. Cummins was timid and backward about talking or praying in public. As death approached he expressed regret that he had not done more for Jesus. Also, had some doubts as to his acceptance with the Lord, and had some fear of death. But the Lord gave him simple steps to facilitate, pray and exercise faith. So that before the end came he was enabled to realize his acceptance fully, and though he had shrunk from death before, he now could say the fear of death was all gone. He called his family to him, bade them goodbye, and requested them to meet him in heaven. Thus he passed away peacefully, having felt the cleansing or purifying power. May the Lord sustain his wife and children, and bring us all together in the better land.

Gross Darkness.

"A vaulting ambition which o'erleaps itself" is by no means confined to those who fill high stations and are born to power and dignity. It may find itself in the cobbler as well as the king. An amusing example was recently given by a member of a rural school board. An illiterate laboring man sought the suffrages of his fellow citizens as a people's candidate for a seat on the local educational board. By a freak of fortune he was elected. The honor proved insufficient to allay his thirst for fame, and for the conscious exercise of authority. He must needs conduct an examination on the following lines:

"Now, you lads, before you goes any farther with the reading of this chapter, let me just see if you knows the meaning of the words you have read. It says 'something' here about 'gross darkness.' Now, what is that? What is gross darkness?"

A chorus of youthful voices—some not without an infection of scorn at the insult to their intelligence conveyed in the putting of so simple a query—makes answer, "Great darkness, sir."

The inquirer shakes his head triumphantly. "No-o," he says, "not exactly. 'What's darkness, boys?'"

The unexpected and bewildering rebuff seems to have inaugurated a temporary reign of silence. When the forward path discloses mysterious pitfalls it is well to walk with circumspection. But at last a solitary piping treble ventures a highly original definition.

"Please, sir, it's what there is after the sun sets and before the lamps are lit."

"Well, yes"—as if condescendingly considering—"you're right. Now, what's a gross?"

The response comes with greater volume and more assurance. This, at least, is solid ground of mathematical fact:

"Twelve dozen, sir."

"And how many is that?"

"A hundred and forty-four, sir."

"Right again. Now listen, you lads, 'Gross darkness' is darkness one hundred and forty-four times as great as that which the scholar over against the middle desk under described for us. Don't you forget what gross darkness is in future."

It may be that the amazed pupils will not forget, but with increased probability it may be guessed that, in the opinion of at any rate the elders among them, the condition of the examiner's mind is precisely that typified by the phrase under discussion.

Rheumatism.

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectively cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's, and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for a long time with rheumatism, and being unable to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had cured his rheumatism by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th St., New York.

"I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I am thoroughly cured of my rheumatism, and I feel that I owe my recovery to this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stack, Nashua, N. H.
